In light of many requests for a comment following recent posts by her opponent regarding mandatory masks and “a civil war coming”, Shirley Allenbrand, candidate for Johnson County Commission District 6th issued the following statement:

“I am in favor of masks, I wear a mask and believe that they work, as do a vast majority of health care professionals. Masks allow our small businesses to remain open and our citizens to be good customers. Further, I have always believed that being divisive is not what made Johnson County the great county that it is. This is a time to move this county forward, not to pit neighbor against neighbor. I want all people in District 6th to have a voice; I do not want to listen to just a noisy few.”
